Messenger, Robbed of Railroad Bonds, Chases Thief in Wall Street Building— Crowd Witnesses Fight.

NEW YORK, April 1.—When Edward Mandell, 19, a runner for the brokerage firm of L. M. Prince, No. 20 Broad street, set out late yesterday afternoon to make a delivery, he carried $10,900 in non-negotiable bonds. Having no large blocks of negotiable securities, he was not accompanied by an armed messenger.

Mandell, who has been in the play of L. M. Prince, had the bonds in a small bag when he entered the building at No. 14 Wall street. He was approached by Harry Schmiesel, 23, of No. 239 Kingsbridge Road, the Bronx.

"Hello, Shifter," said the new acquaintance to Mandell. "Are you going to get a job in this tent?" "Where are you going?" "Schmiesel & Co., sixteenth floor," answered Mandell.

"Come with me for something to eat," said Schmiesel, leading Mandell to the elevator. When the door opened, Schmiesel, who was holding the bag, grabbed the bonds and ran down the stairs leading to the floor below.

Mandell, who was following the chase, also went down the stairs. He saw Schmiesel running and called out to him. Schmiesel, who was holding the bag, turned back and looked at Mandell.

"What are you doing?" asked Mandell. "I'm going to get a job in this tent," answered Schmiesel. "Where are you going?" "Schmiesel & Co., sixteenth floor," answered Mandell.

CHARLES DIES OF PNEUMONIA

(Continued from page 1.) There resembled in some respects that of Napoleon at St. Helena. Charles and Zita occupied a much more comfortable position, for they were given a pleasant home in the beautiful city of Funchal, whose residents treated them with friendly consideration.

Ex-Empress Zita had left her children in Switzerland and when one of them was taken ill, the allied governments permitted her to return to that country and visit them.

After the establishment of the Austrian republic on November 12, 1918, Charles, who was then in Austria, sought permission to return in that country. Although he was asked to leave after it was found he was plotting for his resumption of power. He left with his family late in March, 1919, and rented a house on the banks of Lake Geneva at Prangins, where he resided for some months.

During this time reports of his alleged plotting leaked out and brought forth a categorical statement from the entente that the restoration of the House of Hapsburg would not be permitted. Charles had steadfastly refused to abdicate, although he was requested to do so at various times.

On March 22, 1921, he suddenly appeared in Vienna but his overtures being repulsed by the Austrian authorities, he went to Budapest, where he attempted to take over Hungarian government from Admiral Horthy, Hungarian regent, but without success. He was supported by the former emperor refused to leave the country, pleading illness. Later he offered to renounce all his titles, remaining as a simple citizen.

Switzerland, meanwhile, incensed at his violations of his agreement not to leave the country, was reported as unwilling again to receive him. The members of the little entente, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, sent an ultimatum to Hungary demanding his ejection and on April 6, he re-entered Switzerland, where he received a friendly reception and was engaged in no more intrigues or propaganda. He was ordered to remove his residence from near the border to the central part of Switzerland and did so, locating near Weggis. The Swiss increased their guard over him, but on October 22 he reached Hungary, having crossed the Swiss frontier in an airplane. He formed a "legionist cabinet" at Raab and marched on Budapest with an army of 12,000 men.

The Hungarian government sent loyal troops against him and he was finally captured by his wife near Komorn and confined in the castle at Tata. Tavoros until the Entente Allies, determined that he should not again have an opportunity to attempt a coup d'etat, sent them to Mader.

Charles still refused to abdicate and the Hungarian government, on demand of the allies, passed a bill in the National Assembly deposing him and permanently ousting the Hapsburg regime. A few days later he and Zita were conveyed by a British warship to Funchal, where they arrived November 19, 1921.

MESSAGE OF HOMAGE SENT TO CHARLES

BUDAPEST, March 31.—Charles is now the crowned king to the Hungarians, he is the last ruler of a great Hungary," said Stephan Rakovsky, former president of the national assembly, at a meeting of the Carlists this evening. Some very vehement words were uttered against the government, which one speaker declared had "committed a crime in arresting the king."

The Hungarians sent a message of homage to Charles, and prayers were said for his recovery.

Trotzky Pictures New Era Of Terror

MOSCOW, March 31.—War Minister Trotzky, just returned from a troop inspection on the southwestern front, in the region opposite where Gen. Wrangell and other "white" leaders are reported to be concentrating forces, in an address to the Communist congress today said:

"If the Soviets are to be attacked by the whole European bourgeoisie, perhaps the Soviets will reintroduce a war of Communism which would be more merciless than during the civil war in Russia."

"We can admit the speculation into our economics, but we cannot admit the speculation into our politics, reserving for ourselves the right to reconstruct our whole apparatus of self defense, war, Communism and terror, in event the speculator with his foreign friends should want to strike us a military blow."

General Carr On Trip To Richmond

RICHLAND, N. C., April 1.—General Julian S. Carr, who has about recovered from his lengthy illness, caused by influenza and pleurisy, has left for Richmond, Va., where he will confer with other officials of the U. S. V. regarding the 1932 reunion.

General Carr told friends prior to his departure that he feels fine, and does not expect any further relapse as a result of his illness.

Parker P. Deans To Remain In House

RICHLAND, April 1.—Parker P. Deans, secretary to Governor Trinkle, will not resign his position as a member of the House of Delegates, he said today. Under the law he can hold his position in the assembly as well as serve as the governor's secretary, it is said.

ARMY CUT MEANS DISASTER GENERAL PERSHING DECLARES

WASHINGTON, April 1.—"There was a belief in the past days, still prevalent in some quarters, that the way to avoid war was to ignore its probabilities," declared General John J. Pershing in the course of an informal discussion of the national defense measures before the National Press Club Wednesday. Major General J. G. Harbord also took up the problem.

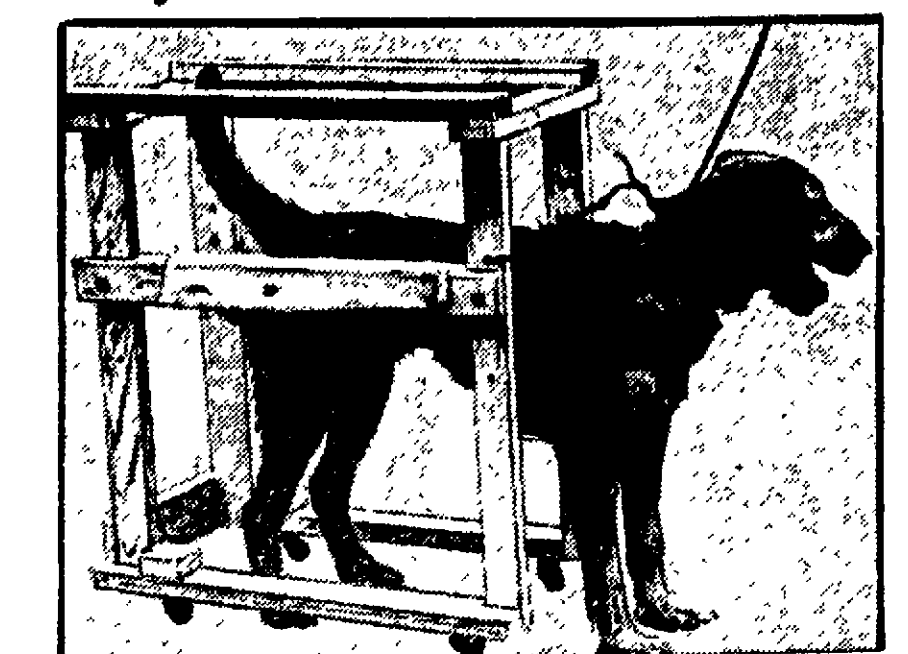

"Men who before the war had the courage to advocate even a common-sense preparedness were called misanthropes and Prussians. And yet, when the terrible awakening came, unreasonable were the demands that be made of the government. The war department should, by some trick, develop a full-fledged fighting force over night. And yet that same lack of preparation, so glaringly apparent at that time, is about to be overlooked."

The adoption of a sound military policy for the future of the nation's history came in the act of June 4, 1920, General Pershing said. This law provides a regular army of 17,000 officers and 240,000 men, and the organization of a certain number of National Guard divisions, more or less complete, with a national reserve of officers to be assigned territorially for units for training so that they and their organizations may be readily available and their training completed in time of war.

"A careful consideration of the work in hand, if the initial well-laid scheme is not to be seriously curtailed and many essential activities abandoned, leads inevitably to the conclusion that any further reduction would be disastrous. We must have the means to carry out the organization and training of the citizen army, as well as to provide continued security to the country, or drift helplessly back to the pre-war hand-to-mouth policy of lethargy and inactivity," General Pershing said.

Shoots Girl, Kills Himself In Taxi

Young Man Fires When Victim Refuses to Divorce Husband to Marry Him.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Because she would not divorce her husband and marry him, Michael Manna, 25, of No. 80 Charles street shot Mrs. Jno. Grant, 20, of No. 206 West 44th st., and then killed himself while riding in a taxi at 24th street and Eighth avenue early yesterday. Manna fired four shots at the young woman then, shot himself in the head. They were both taken to the New York hospital, where Manna died soon after his arrival. Mrs. Grant's condition is serious.

Mr. Grant, who is a structural steel worker in Chicago, was not in New York with his wife for some time. Mrs. Grant uses her maiden name of Mrs. Cecilia Farrell.

Manna became infatuated with Mrs. Grant before he learned she was married. Since then he has repeatedly urged her to get a divorce. Wednesday night Mrs. Grant visited the home of Mrs. Teresa Manna at No. 80 Charles street a sister of Manna with whom he lived.

Manna escorted Mrs. Grant home. They took a taxicab, run by Edward Clark, Clark stopped the cab, a little after midnight. They began quarreling almost at once. Clark said and he heard Mrs. Grant say:

"We're through after tonight."

There was a brief pause, then the shot. Clark stopped the cab and the girl fell to the floor. Patrolman George Killam of the West 50th street station called a New York hospital ambulance. Mrs. Grant regained consciousness at the hospital when her mother, Mrs. Farrell, was at her side. Manna died without speaking.

Neighborhood Shovel Robs Taft Of Sleep

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Chief Justice Taft has such a notorious reputation for geniality that many have reached the conclusion nothing could ruffle him. He chuckled his way through four years as president and retained the chuckle when he assumed the dignified office of chief justice.

Last Sunday morning, however, it was different. Between the houses occupied by Mr. Taft and John Hays Hammond is a large vacant lot. The owners have decided to build. They were in a hurry and ordered several days' work a week.

Came Sunday when usually there is a deep silence in this neighborhood and residents slumber late. Last Sunday they did not. Came 7 a. m. and the whistle of the steam shovel emitted a screech, followed by the clanking, grinding rumble as the sharp-pointed scoop dug its way into the earth.

Monday morning the chief justice was the first of a deluge of complaint that flooded the offices of District of Columbia officials. The deluge was efficient. Monday afternoon there is used an order prohibiting building operations on Sunday except by special permit of the building inspector.

Ma Bergdoll Draws Fine For Contempt

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, fugitive draft dodger, was fined $50 for contempt of court here today. After explanation by her attorney, John Maxwell, the fine was remitted, but Judge Bailey of the Supreme court, who imposed it, declined to go on with the case.

The case is one in which Mrs. Bergdoll is seeking to recover property seized by the alien property custodian belonging to her son. Mrs. Bergdoll repeatedly interrupted the proceedings and finally stridently demanded to know whether she had an attorney or not.

Judge Bailey then assessed the fine. Mr. Maxwell paid it with a personal check, explaining to the court that in Philadelphia Mrs. Bergdoll had been acting as her own attorney and was somewhat confused. The judge's refusal to go on with the case carries it over to the next term of court.

Criley and Wilson Make Up Quarrel

DELMONTE, Calif., March 31.—Peace again reigns in Carmel, artist colony which recently was shaken by news of a duel fought with fists by Harry Leon Wilson and Theodore Criley. Wilson, widely known fiction writer and Criley, who forsook business to become a landscape painter, are prominent members of the colony.

Since word of their clash Saturday leaked out, Carmel has been on edge with anticipation for a succeeding motive in the quarrel, which Wilson is credited with having promised today, however, Sherman Wolff, attorney for Criley and a friend of both men visited Wilson and obtained from him an expression of willingness to let bygones be bygones.

Criley earlier had expressed a willingness to drop the matter, which he characterized as "schoolboy stuff."

Dean Convicted, Gray Acquitted

Charles Gray and Ernest Dean, negroes, were given hearings this morning in the police court on charges of violating the Mapp Act. Dean was convicted and sentenced to serve 30 days in jail and fined $50 and cost, while the case against Gray was dismissed.

Get Diplomas After Wait Of 40 Years

ATLANTA, March 31.—Superintendent of Schools Hutton will have a problem on his hands tonight when he delivers diplomas to a class graduated from the boys' high school. Almost without exception its members have the advantage over his own years and therefore, in experience and the honors which usually attend such occasions would be sadly malapropos.

The class was graduated in 1872 and included a number of boys who have achieved prominent places in the vocations they afterwards selected. Among them were Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, Frank P. Rice, leading realtor, Marion Erwin, prominent in southern legal circles, and many others. For some reason, long forgotten, the diplomas were never presented to the young hopefuls in the years intervening since their graduation.

Alleged Bond Thieves Have Been Indicted

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Charles A. Cleveland, of this city and Ureel O. Wamsley of Charlottesville, Va., held in connection with the recent theft of $15,000 worth of Liberty bonds from the treasury here, were indicted today by the grand jury, charged respectively with larceny from the United States and moving possession of property stolen from the United States.

Cleveland, a former employee of the treasury, had nearly $100,000 worth of bonds hidden under the flooring in his room when arrested according to secret service operatives.

U. V. Klan Accuses 100 Of Bad Paper

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 1.—Deploping the growing menace of the rendering of bad checks by students of the University of Virginia, the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of that institute has had the following notice posted around the college:

"There are approximately 100 students represented on a combined list of bad checks in the hands of merchants at the university and in Charlottesville. This represents slightly over 6 per cent. of the entire student body."

"Aside from the fact this is a condition which is unfair to the merchants, it is unjust to the University of Virginia and to the spirit of honor at this place. This inflicts a daily increasing hardship on the rest of the student body."

"This is a condition which has largely developed during the last three years. We are reluctant to believe that the spirit of personal honor is weakening in this institution."

"We earnestly request and expect the undivided cooperation of each student in ridding the university of this growing menace."

"We are in a position to post a list of nearly 100 names. We feel sure that all bad checks due to carelessness will be taken up within the first two or three days of the coming month."

Liberals Decide to Withhold Approval of His Policy for Genoa.

LONDON, March 31.—There appeared to be some doubt today as to whether Premier Lloyd George would secure a vote of confidence in the House of Commons next Monday when he outlines the British Government's programme at the Genoa Conference and asks the House to sanction it.

Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader, today parried the question of former Premier Asquith as to whether any agreement had been arrived at during the Boulogne conference between Mr. Lloyd George and M. Poincare, the French Premier, limiting the subjects to be discussed at Genoa. Mr. Chamberlain merely said that Mr. Lloyd George would deal fully with the Genoa Conference in his speech.

The Liberals, following another meeting today, decided to propose an amendment to the confidence resolution which Mr. Lloyd George purposes to place before the House, as follows:

"That the House, while regretting the limitations on subjects for discussion, approves the holding of a general conference, but declines to express confidence in His Majesty's Government with regard thereto."

Conviction Of Christian Upheld By Appeals Court

RICHLAND, March 31.—Conviction of Julian T. Christian, former member of the House of Delegates from Mathews county, of selling ardent spirits in violation of the state prohibition law was upheld today by the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals in an opinion affirming the judgment of the Mathews County Circuit court, in which he was given one month in jail, coupled with $100 fine.

"If reasons were as plentiful as blackberries," said the Appellate court, "it would be unnecessary to give one to sustain this ruling of the trial courts, which is obviously correct."

Christian, who runs a store at Mathews Courthouse, sold a beverage called "High Ball." One of the errors of assignment was that the liquid did not contain alcohol and therefore could not be classed as ardent spirits. The evidence showed that the liquid produced intoxication and there was also evidence that the effect resembled the effect of narcotics rather than alcohol. The Appellate court held that if a beverage will produce intoxication its sale is prohibited under the state prohibition statutes.

The evidence was that Christian was accustomed to buy five gallons of a liquid labeled "turpentine" about once a month from a western firm. In making a "High Ball" an inch of this liquid would be poured in a glass, which was then filled with a soft drink known as "Green River." The price was 25 cents a glass.

Christian is said to have been once a state oyster inspector. He served in the legislature in the session of 1912 and was generally rated as a "wet" member. The state-wide prohibition bill was not passed until two years later.

Farmyard Flocks Hilariously Drunk

WATERBURY, Conn., March 31.—The most hilarious lag in years was staged in Michael Antan's barnyard at Mohawk Park, just outside of this city, today. Turkeys, geese, sheep, pigs and chickens staggered and flopped about, gloriously drunk. One bleary-eyed rooster jumped at a staggering Billy-goat that didn't have a leg to stand on.

A flock of geese honked uproariously from a comfortable but undignified position on their backs. Cows chewed their cud as though their tongues were just a bit too big for them.

It happened because Prohibition Agents Edward and Cabiner raided Mike's farm two days ago and found six huge stills in full operation. They seized 800 gallons of mash in the yard, confiscated 100 gallons of raw but sturdy moonshine and clapped Mike in the lock-up.

Neighbors took pity on his stock when Mike couldn't show up in the morning and the hungry menagerie, their appetite whetted by the abnormal fast, made a bee-line for the mash. The rest did not take very long.

Scoop's Colyum
DRAKES BRANCH, April 1.—(Grapevine Wireless)—More than a hundred years ago a band of "bribe-brokers and slaves" from overseas "vauntingly swore" what they would accomplish at Fort McHenry, but "the dawn's early light" revealed the fact that "your flag was still there," a result that gave occasion for Francis Scott Key's immortal poem. After the modern conflict shall have ended and the smoke of battle from imaginary wars has drifted away, perhaps the following revised version of The Star-Spangled Banner may be appropriate:

The Star-Spangled Banner.
(With variations and with apologies to Francis Scott Key.)
Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light,
Any smoke from the still yet so proudly unfurling,
Whose sweet-scented column thro' the darkness of night,
O'er the mountain we watched was so gracefully curling?
And the fire's red glare, mashing scenting the air,
Gave proof all O. K. that the still was yet there.
Oh, say, does that spiral at daydawn yet wave,
O'er the mountain top free, from the still in the cave?
O'er the woods, dimly seen thro' the mist from the hills,
Where the spies lie concealed, slaves of foul prohibition,
What is that which the breeze from the towering hills,
As it fitfully blows half reveals its position?
Now it catches the ray of the first blush of day,
As the morning star's gutter is fading away.
'Tis a smoke column rising, oh, long may it wave,
O'er the mountain top free, from the still in the cave.
Where now is the gang who so vauntingly swore,
Thro' noxious love (?) and fanatic minion,
We no beer, wine or moonshine should drink any more?
Washed out by the flood of public opinion,
No refuge could save the hireling and slave,
From the terror inspired by the smoke from the cave,
And the smoke curling blithely in triumph doth wave,
O'er the mountain top free, from the still in the cave.
Oh, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand,
Between their just rights and wild drags' persecution,
Blest with justice and rights may the faded banner
Lose the pow'r that hath made their foul footsteps pollution.
Then unto the breeze o'er our land and our seas,
Well fling forth our motto, "We'll drink what we please."
Then the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

One Business Helped By Saloons.
"If any man here" shouted the temperance speaker, "can name an honest business that has been helped by the saloon I will spend the rest of my life working for the liquor people."
A man in the audience arose. "I consider my business an honest one," he said, "and it has been helped by the saloon."
"What is your business?" yelled the orator.
"I, sir," responded the man, "am an undertaker."

There are fancier towns than your own little town.
There are towns that are bigger than this.
And the people who live in a little old town.
Don't know the excitement they miss.
There are things you can see in the wealthier towns.
That you can't in a town that is small.
And yet, up and down, there is no other town.
Than your own little town, after all.
It may be quite true that the streets aren't long.
Nor as wide and maybe not as straight.
But the neighbors you know in your own little town.
All welcome a fellow, it's great!
In the glittering streets of a glittering town.
With its pit and pavement and thrall.
In the midst of its throng you will frequently long
For your own little town after all.
If you live and you work in your own little town.
In spite of the fact that it's small.
You'll find it a fact that your own little town is the best.
Is the best little town, after all.

WOMAN IN RACE FOR SENATE DEFIES MEN'S EFFORTS TO BLOCK HER

MISS BELLE KEARNEY, CANDIDATE FOR THE UNITED STATES SENATE FROM MISSISSIPPI, AND ONE OF THE REFORMS SHE ASKS

JACKSON, Miss., April 1.—"Nothing but my own death can take me out of this race!" That's the statement of Miss Belle Kearney, woman candidate for United States senator from Mississippi, a State that bitterly fought the national woman suffrage amendment to the last ditch.
Political observers here say Miss Kearney's chance of winning is good and that a queer twist of political fate may cause Mississippi to send one of the first women to the Senate.
Miss Kearney repeatedly has defied masculine elements that have sought her withdrawal from the senatorial campaign.
Not a "Quitter"
"After the bitter fights I have gone through to gain State and national prohibition and to win the ballot for women, I am not easily eliminated," she says.
"Men have been so in the habit of eliminating or effacing women that it's only natural for them to run true to form."
"But they forget they are faced by a new situation that looms like a stone wall—the enfranchisement of women."
"As a citizen of Mississippi I shall fight for my rights and the rights of every woman of the land if I have to battle alone without a campaign manager and without a campaign fund."

Will Stump State
Miss Kearney started her active senatorial campaign as soon as it became known that Senator John S. Williams would not run for re-election.
With a brief platform she's now planning to stump every county in the State.
Having started her career as a schoolteacher, Miss Kearney early turned to uplift work. She became one of the best lecturers and organizers of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.
She toured every State in the interest of this organization before federal prohibition legislation was passed. She also was an ardent suffrage worker.
In the World War she went to France at her own expense and engaged in relief work.
While several other candidates may enter the race, Miss Kearney's only possible opponent now is ex-Senator James K. Vardaman.

THE KEARNEY PLATFORM
Here are the planks in the platform which Miss Belle Kearney, candidate for United States senator, is running, defying attempts of men to shut her to withdrawal from the race:
Disarmament and entry of the United States into the League of Nations.
Legislation toward making the United States a nation of home owners rather than that of renters.
Strict enforcement of the Volstead act.
Protective legislation for women in industry.
Restricted immigration.
Laws to enforce social morality.
Advocacy of a federal department of education with secretary in the cabinet.
A more vigorous public health policy.
Reduced taxation, federal aid for farmers' progressive labor legislation.
The leading States in the Union in developed waterpower are New York, with 1,300,000 horsepower, and California, with 1,111,000 horsepower.

ARE REMOVED FOR GOOD OF SERVICE
WASHINGTON, March 31.—James L. Wilmoth, director of the bureau of engraving and printing and a number of other executives in the bureau, were removed from the good of the service, tonight by President Harding through an executive order. Louis A. Hill, assistant chief of the division of engraving, was named as the new director of the bureau, and all other vacancies were also filled.
The executive order affected executive heads of every division in the bureau, and the action was taken, it was explained, as the result of an extended investigation and in connection with a complete readjustment of the bureau to peace time conditions. Mr. Hill, who was sworn in immediately, went to the bureau and took charge. The new executive personnel will be in complete charge tomorrow.

TROUBLED IRISH HISTORY ENTERS A NEW PHASE
LONDON, March 31.—(Associated Press).—Troubled Irish history today entered a new phase with the double achievement of the Free State bill safely reaching the statute book and the conclusion of the agreement between the north and the south and the imperial government opening a better prospect for eventual Irish unity.
If Premier Lloyd George was the hero of the Irish treaty, Winston Spencer Churchill secretary for the colonies, admittedly is the hero of Thursday's agreement.
Mr. Churchill has been the recipient of universal tributes of praise and admiration, beginning with Joseph Devlin's speech in the House of Commons Thursday evening, as mainly responsible for bringing the opposing parties in Ireland together in a conference which had such speedy results.
Austen Chamberlain, in a speech delivered tonight in Birmingham joined in the chorus of plaudits when he said of the colonial secretary, "Mr. Churchill displayed patience and parliamentary skill which places him right in the forefront of the parliamentary leadership."
Warning voices, however, are heard in the press, especially in Belfast and Mr. Churchill himself in the House of Commons today begged the House not to indulge in optimistic delusions but on the whole the disposition seems to be to take a hopeful view of the situation.
In Dublin today the signing of the agreement was received with great rejoicing. There seemed to be an impression that Michael Collins, head of the provisional government in Ireland and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, would hardly have signed the agreement without having first arrived at a tacit understanding as to how best to deal with the admittedly difficult problem of activities of the Irish Republican army in Ulster. The attitude of a fine followers of Eamon de Valera gives the greatest cause for anxiety, but on this subject little reliable opinion could be obtained today.

Winter Comes
A. S. M. Hutchinson
1917 A. S. M. HUTCHINSON

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
After eight years of married life, MARK SABRE gradually realized that he was neither understood by his prosaic and snobbish wife, MABEL, nor by his colleagues in the firm of Fortune, East and Sabre. A promised partnership in the business has been denied him and dismissed to TWYNING, a jealous associate. Suddenly an old sweetheart, NONA, now the wife of a failing Lord Tybar, returns after two years of travel. Mabel becomes suspicious when Nona writes Sabre an informal invitation to visit her.
GO ON WITH THE STORY
"An invitation! Whyever didn't she write me?" "Whyever" again! "May I see it?"
He took the letter from his pocket and handed it to her. "It's not exactly an invitation—not formal."
She did what he called "flicked" the letter out of his envelope. He was annoyed at her rudeness and in his mind he could see as perfectly as she with her eyes, the odd, red script, in his mind he read it with her, word by word.
Dear Marko—we're back. We've been from China to Peru—almost. I'm now in London and I'm bored about it. How are you? Nona.
His thought was, "Damn the letter!"
Mabel handed it back, without returning it to its envelope. She said, "No, it's not formal."
She snatched three roses with astonishing swiftness—slip, snip, snip! In half an hour the shallow basket was beautified with fragrant blooms and Mabel thought she had enough. "Well, that's that," said Sabre as they re-entered the morning room.
She took up a creamy rose and snipped off a fragment of stalk over the saucer. "Why does she call you 'Marko'?"
He was utterly taken aback. If the question had come from any one but Mabel, he would have quite failed to notice it. With the letter. But here had distinctly been an "incident" over the letter, though so far, closed, as he had imagined, that he was completely surprised.
"He said, 'Who? Nona?'"
"Yes, Nona, if you like. Lady Tybar."
"Why, she always has. You know that."
Mabel put the rose into a specimen vase with immense care and touched a speck off its petals with her finger. "If really didn't."
"Mabel, you know you do. You must have heard her."
"Well, I may have. But long ago I certainly didn't know she used it in letters."
He felt he was growing angry.
"What on earth's the difference?"
"It seems to me there's a great deal of difference. I didn't know she wrote it like that."
He was angry. "Damn it, she doesn't write me letters."
She shrugged her shoulders. "You seem to get them anyway."
"Maddening!"
And then he thought, "I'm not going to let it be maddening. This is just what happens." He said, "Well, this is silly. I've known her—we've known one another—for years, since we were children, pretty well. She's called me by my Christian name since I can remember. You must have heard her. We didn't see much of her—perhaps you haven't. I thought you had. Anyway, dash the thing. What does it matter?"
"It doesn't matter"—she launched a flower into a vase—"a bit. I only think it's funny, that's all."
"Well, it's just her way."
Mabel gave a little sniff. He thought it was over. But it wasn't. He just asked me I call it a funny letter. You say your Christian name but it isn't your Christian name—Marko! And then saying, 'How are you?' like that—"
"Like what? She just said it, didn't she?"
"Yes, I know. And then 'Nona.' Don't you call that funny?"
"Well, I always used to call her 'Nona.' She'd have thought it funny, as you call it to put anything else. I tell you it's just her way."
"Well, I think it's a very funny way and I think anybody else would think so. I don't like her. I never did like her."
He thought, "My God, this bickering! Why don't I get out of the room?"
"Come back for a day off with me! It's a funny thing you came back just in time to get the letter! Before it was delivered! There! Now you know!"
He was purely amazed. He thought and in his amazement was such that, characteristically, his anger left him; he thought, "Well, of all the things I've ever heard of, I wish I could live in mine." And she gave a note of laughter.
"Where do you live, Nona?"
"I don't live, I just go on"—she paused—"flossam!"
Strange words to use, strangely spoken.
It seemed to Sabre to drop with a strange, detached effect into the conversation between them. His habit of visualizing inanimate things caused him to see as it were a pool between them and their feet, and from the world dropped into ripples that came to his feet upon the margin of the pool and to her feet upon hers.
He took the word away from its personal application. He believed that rather than I was thinking about it, I was thinking about Nona. About how we just go on—flossam. Don't you know on a river where it's tidal, or on the seashore at the turn, the mass of stuff you see there, driftwood and spent foam and stuff just floating there, unheeded, brought in and left there—from somewhere; and then presently the tide begins to take it and it's drawn off and moves away and goes—somewhere. Arrives and floats and goes. That's mysterious, Nona?"

COAL STRIKE

operators and miners in this connection was reported from Washington where operators were said to be objecting to paying the wages provided for in the contracts that expired at midnight.

Mr. Lewis' formal statement regarding the suspension of work follows: "The strike upon which the United Mine Workers of America are entering is not a question of small magnitude nor one to be lightly considered by the American people. It is fraught with far-reaching consequences and serious responsibilities affecting public well-being. The withdrawal of in excess of 600,000 men from the mines of the country, constitutes a serious problem. Aside from the inevitable coal shortage, which will ensue to the profit of coal operators and to the detriment of the public, it will cause a dislocation of industry throughout the nation, affecting hundreds of thousands of citizens in other walks of life.

"This is a deplorable condition and constitutes a sad commentary upon the relationships of employer and employee in American industry. Every thoughtful man recognizes that in the end a settlement of the problems of the mining industry must perforce be effected. Such settlement must come through joint conferences with accredited representatives of the mine workers of the nation.

"It is most unfortunate because of the arbitrary attitude of the coal operators that such a meeting cannot be assembled until the country has endured the agony and convulsions involved in an industrial strike on such a gigantic scale. In the present issue the public has been lulled in a sense of false security by the soothing statements of those who will profit through a strike.

"The mine workers repeatedly have called attention to those facts and our statements have gone unheeded. The responsibility must therefore be with those who have forced the present situation and are seeking to beat the miners backward.

"As self-respecting citizens we are resolved to stand in opposition to those who deny us a living wage and our proper aspirations for an American standard of wages.

18,000 MEN WILL BE IDLE IN PENNSYLVANIA

NEW YORK, March 31.—Eighteen thousand railroad workers in the State of Pennsylvania will be thrown out of work tomorrow as a direct result of the anthracite coal strike.

Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers announced here today.

This, Mr. Murray asserted, will be "only a prelude to the far-reaching suspension of the anthracite coal mines, bound to follow idleness at the mines."

Officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, the largest single carrier of anthracite in that State, tonight revealed that plans for suspension of freight trains were already under way.

Other railroad where the strike will be most keenly felt include the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and Lehigh Valley, according to the officials of these roads.

It would not be possible for several days to estimate the number of men to be affected by stoppage of the sources of coal tonnage.

Steamship lines, as well as other public utilities, have taken precaution to avert shortage of fuel due to the strike, it was revealed today.

For such craft as use coal, chiefly freighters, supplies sufficient for several months have been stored in the land coal guelting stations. It was said.

No shortage is anticipated unless the suspension of the mines continues more than four months.

Shipping men pointed out that installation of oil burning machinery in virtually all passenger liners, and in many of the larger freighters, removes them from the influence of the coal strike.

In the event of a fuel famine, they said, coal burners could fill their bunkers at European stations, where there is reported to be an oversupply, or at South American ports.

OFFICIALS IN WASHINGTON SAY THEY HAVE MADE EFFORTS TO STOP STRIKE

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Convinced that every reasonable effort has been made to prevent a national coal strike in anthracite and bituminous coal mines tomorrow, but believing that although these efforts have been without avail, existing conditions and surplus coal assure price protection and current supply for the general public, official Washington settled back tonight to await the event with considerable calmness.

In a final White House discussion it was said that the government's long negotiation with the parties to the controversy and continuous study of the industry's production volume had convinced the administration that immediate intervention, in legal or extra-legal ways, would be futile and unnecessary, and that while the future might sharpen the breach between employer and employee in the mining camps, for the present even action looking to the preservation of peace was unnecessary.

President Harding was urged during the day by a delegation representing the protestant federal council of churches of Christ and the National Catholic Welfare Council to make a further attempt to get operators and miners together and to set up a commission to adjust their differences.

At the White House, however, it was said later that no action was admissible at this time.

A House committee also was told by Edward G. Tyson, coal production statistician for the Geological survey, that 1,500,000 tons of coal, equivalent to a 51 day supply for every consumer was in storage at this time.

The stocks, officials estimated, will be supplemented indefinitely by large outputs from non-union fields in West Virginia and elsewhere, where operators asserted today that miners would pay no attention to the union attempts to have them cease work. Labor department officials also were interested in reports from union fields in West Virginia and elsewhere, where it was estimated that approximately 5,000 miners were considering staying on the job under a legal wage contract notwithstanding the national orders for walking out.

Federal reserve bank and geological surveys statements were issued today, bearing upon the recent over production of coal which has bulked largely in White House and labor department assurances that moderate prices and plentiful supply of fuel were assured.

The reserve bank statement said that bituminous users recently had so amplified their stocks that even the fear of a strike had not sufficed to prevent a falling off in demand and a weakening of prices.

The geological survey asserted that "even though most of the coal mines in the country should remain closed down for three months, citizens of our larger cities need not be interested in queries during recent weeks have reversion of light and power services disclosed large public utilities whose stock piles will last for 160 days, while average stores have run between 18 and 24 days in potential capacities. Railroads, manufacturers, and dealers alike have reported similar conditions for official records.

This situation, marking the present coal strike as distinctly different from past ones, was unofficially classified as being responsible for a rather cool acceptance of the strike in informed labor union, industrial and official circles, because strike or no strike, it was tending to produce a fairly widespread suspension of coal mining, particularly in bituminous fields.

Piedmont Show Opens For Week

ment at St. Augustine, Fla., where, in 10 weeks the band played 140 concerts. At each of these concerts the band played selections from the world's greatest operas, including Lucia d' Lammermoor, Fidelio and others, as well as a large number of popular selections.

Some of these numbers will be repeated here, assuring those who are expecting to attend the exposition of hearing music that is worthwhile, as well as something that is calculated to please the lover of syncopation. A well balanced program has been arranged for the first concert of the day, one that is sure to please all who hear the band play.

Winston-Salem Exhibits

Winston-Salem's manufacturers will be well represented at the exposition. The Chatham Manufacturing Co., blanket manufacturers, have a large booth and will have on display a complete line of woolen blankets. This concern has a large trade in Danville and their goods are known throughout the Piedmont section.

The Bahnon Co., manufacturers of humidifiers, will display a humidifier in operation.

The Crystal Candy Co., of Winston-Salem, will have an attractive display of candies.

The Jarvis Storage Battery Co., is another Winston-Salem concern that will exhibit.

Richmond Exhibitors

Among the concerns from Richmond that will have exhibits here are the Corby Baking Co., Armistead-LeFebvre, Arragon Coffee Co., and Beaumont Ginger Ale Co.

There are many other exhibits from out-of-town that promises to attract attention and add to the interest of the exposition.

Dancing a Feature.

It was decided yesterday to add dancing to the many features of the exposition. There will be dancing each night from 8:30 to 11:30. This action was taken by the management of the exposition at the urgent solicitation of many young people of the town. Yarborough's Royal Husar Band will furnish music for these dances.

The program of the Royal Husar Band follows:

March—Stars and Stripes Forever—Souza.

1. Overture—Masaniello—Auber.

2. Cornet Solo—Serenade—Schubert (Mr. Schade, soloist.)

3. Grand Selection—From Mikado—Sullivan.

4. Sextette—From "Lucia"—Donizetti (The Royal Husar Sextette.)

Intermission

5. Selection—From Magic Melody—Romberg.

6. Tenor Solo—Selected—(Billy Willard, Tenor)

7. Grand Selection—From the Opera "Faust"—Gounod.

8. Whistling Solo—The Whistler and His Dog—Pryor—(Ida Mae Cook, Soloist.)

Final—Star Spangled Banner—Yarborough—Conducting

THREE SERIOUSLY BURNED IN MACON AIRPLANE WRECK

MACON, Ga., March 31.—W. L. Fisher, said to have been a member of the Royal corps of the English army during the world war, and two companions, Ray Roundtree and John J. Costa, automobile racers, received burns and injuries in an airplane wreck here late today that may cost their lives.

According to other aviators who saw the accident the plane struck a down current just after hopping off this afternoon, causing it to strike the smokestack. A guy wire from the stack became entangled in the machinery of the plane and in an instant it was in flames.

Two of the men, helpless in the wreckage, were pulled out by railroad men who smothered the flames by throwing loose earth upon them. The third, Costa, was thrown free of the machine and ran down the railroad tracks. Like a human torch, a prize fighter knocked him down and rolled him in the sand to put out the flames.

Fisher had been flying for eight years and for two seasons, was located in Pennsylvania, he said.

Fisher gives his residence as Mack, Colorado. Roundtree says he resides at 181 East 33rd street, Portland, Oregon and Costa at Anthony, Kansas.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY TRY TO MULCE RICKARD

NEW YORK, March 31.—A charge that agents for the Children's Society sought to "shake down" Tex Rickard for $50,000 before his recent trial and acquittal on complaint of a 15-year-old girl and a counter charge that the affair was concocted to create a favorable atmosphere for the accused promoter during his trial were reported today as involved in the suspension of two agents of the society.

The report was issued by Assistant Director, Attorney Pecora, who prosecuted Rickard. He said the suspension of the two agents had been announced to him by General Manager Coulter of the society. The suspension was for the "failure to report what appeared to be an attempt to shake down Rickard," Pecora declared he had been informed.

Pecora said a statement by William Kelleher, agent for the Children's Society, Kelleher's story he said, was that Rickard met four of the agents, that their spokesman told the promoter that for $50,000 they could get the girls to change their stories, thereby weakening the case against him.

Rickard said: "I won't pay a cent, I'm innocent," and walked out.

THREATENED BY TARIFFS

BRUSSELS, April 1.—(N. Y. Times)—Two of Belgium's most important industries—lace and glass manufacture—are threatened with ruin by heavy protective tariffs imposed by Great Britain and France. The ancient lace trade, essentially an export industry, has received what many experts consider a fatal blow from the passage of the British Industries Protective act, designed really to prevent "dumping" of German products in England. England was the chief market for Belgian lace.

The glass trade finds France, its principal outlet, closed owing to the 500 per cent. import duty.

FRENCH SOLDIERS KILLED IN SURPRISE ATTACK IN MOROCCO

LONDON, March 31.—Seven hundred men belonging to two French columns have been killed or wounded in a surprise attack by tribesmen in the Moulouya Valley of French Morocco, according to a dispatch to the London Times from Huelva, Spain, dated Thursday, quoting telegraphic advices received from the El Araish, Morocco, wireless station.

WOMAN TOO WEAK TO WALK

Now Works Nine Hours a Day.— Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt.—"I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good I was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well."

—Mrs. L. A. GUIMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women, and whether you work or not Mrs. Guimann's letter should interest you.

Many women get into a weak, nervous run down condition because of ailments they often have. Such women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of trouble. Good health is necessary and this splendid medicine will help you to keep it.

NEWS OF ROCKY MOUNT

ROCKY MOUNT, March 31.—The regular term of Franklin county circuit court will open here, Monday, April 2, Judge P. H. Dillard, presiding.

The term opens with a heavy docket, a number of the cases being carried over from the February term. The murder case of Commonwealth vs. Jno. Quinn for murder, is set for April 18.

One of the most interesting basketball games of the season was played on the local court Monday night, between the Rocky Mount H. S. and Rocky Mount Athletic Club. From the beginning it could be seen that the game would be close, so evenly were they matched. The High school team was the first to score a point, making four before the club team began scoring. All through the game the first one team and the other would lead by only a point or a margin, and when the whistle blew for the final wind up, the club team was leading by the score of 21 to 20. Price for the high school, and Shaver for the club team were the leading point scorers for their team.

This game was under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of Scott Memorial Methodist church for the benefit of the building fund for the new Methodist church.

J. W. Kendrick has bought the Rocky Mount Pool Parlor from Vernon Davis, who has been in charge and owner for the past 12 months. Mr. Kendrick will continue his mercantile business on Main street, giving a part of his time to both places.

The pre-Easter services of the Christian church, conducted by their pastor, the Rev. Arthur Wake, will begin Sunday, April 9, a week before the Easter festival.

The Jubal Early chapter, U. D. C., will hold its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. J. W. Beheler, on Spring St., Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. W. T. Chittwood, presiding. There will be no special program for this meeting, but all members are requested to be present.

Rev. Arthur Wake, who is conducting a series of meetings in Pocatontas, will return next week.

Dr. H. A. Hardie was the guest of his family, the first of the week. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wigginton of Cogginsville, are visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Blackwell, in Mullins, W. Va.

W. L. Cooper was in Roanoke the first of the week, the guest of Mrs. Cooper, who is a patient in a hospital there. The last report she is doing nicely.

Mrs. L. W. Pinkard who has been in a Roanoke hospital for the past month, has recovered sufficiently to return and now is improving rapidly.

Miss Alice Hardie has returned to Steller, where she taught this past session, for a week.

Miss Lydia Dillard has returned to Stuart Hall, after spending her spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Dillard.

Miss Una Wimblish is now the guest of relatives in Winston-Salem, N. C., where she has been for the past week.

Miss Nellie and Miss Mollie Prillman, with their brother, Noah Prillman, visited relatives at Callaway Sunday and Monday.

HOTEL BURNS; NO LIVES LOST

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 31.—A radio message received late today by H. E. Bemis, vice president of the Florida East Coast Hotel company, owners of the Colonial Hotel at Nassau, N. P., Bahama Islands, said the hotel, laundry, power house, and all other out-buildings were completely destroyed by fire there today.

150 guests in the hotel, most of whom were from New York. According to his information, he said, no lives had been lost. It will be a very easy matter, Mr. Bemis said, to open the Victoria, another of the Florida East Coast hotels, to take care of the guests of the Colonial.

There was no explanation contained in his message of the origin of the fire.

The hotel is a frame structure and had about 500 rooms. It was scheduled to close April 7.

Tariff Bill Before Bonus, Says Smoot

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Decision of Senate leaders to complete work on the tariff in the Senate finance committee before turning to the Fordney bonus bill was reiterated by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, ranking member of the committee, after a conference with President Harding today.

Although Senator Smoot did not quote the president, it is his distinct desire that nothing should hold up the tariff bill. Mr. Smoot made known that he will propose a bonus measure for revenue for which would be derived from a sales tax and which will have as its adjusted compensation feature a twenty-year endowment insurance with a face value of $500 and a value of $2,100 upon maturity.

Senator McCumber, who favors prompt action on the bonus, has not held his conference with the president.

Chairman Fordney of the House ways and means committee today wrote to the Senate finance committee, which is said to be in favor of foreign valuation for the tariff, that the House will insist on the American valuation principle.

Great Britain and Spain, he declared, base their tariff on home valuation. This principle was also used in other countries he added, and was an essential part of the House bill.

Probst Again Put With The Insane

Despite Court Order, Lawyer and Counsel Find
Butler in Psychopathic
Ward

NEW YORK, March 31.—In spite of the recent order of Federal Judge Knox directing the removal of Archie Probst, young Swiss butler, from the ward for the insane at Ellis Island, three visitors to the island yesterday discovered he had been returned to that ward and held there since Tuesday. These visitors were the Swiss vice consul, Charles Fehman, Probst's cousin, Mrs. Rosa Probst Gordon, No. 447 North Edgewood street, Philadelphia, and his counsel, Bernard H. Sandler, No. 261 Broadway. Probst alleges he is being railroaded out of the country by wealthy Pittsburghers.

As a consequence of his discovery, Sandler announced last night he would go to Ellis Island this morning and demand an immediate hearing of Probst's case by one of the trial boards now sitting there. On their return from the island last evening, Mrs. Gordon said:

"I came to New York today to see Archie and to offer to do what I could for him. His father, now dead, and his mother and uncles and aunts in Bene are among the most highly respected people in that city. For nearly 40 years the family has conducted the famous Military Garden there. Some time ago I received a letter that he was in America, but I did not know his address nor he mine. And I had not read of his difficulty until last week, when I wrote to him. He told me today he was put back in the psychopathic ward Tuesday with 22 violently insane foreigners and only two male nurses. His day and nights, he said, were hideous. I am sure he is as sane as you or I. Anything I can do for him I intended to do, and if he will be accepted for his release I will see that it is obtained."

Sandler said he went to Ellis Island yesterday when he received a tip that Probst had been returned to the psychopathic ward. He declared he was compelled to wait an hour there before he could see his client. Probst told him, he said, that when he was sent back to the ward Tuesday he asked to communicate with Sandler, but permission was refused. When the Swiss consul appeared yesterday, Probst told his attorney, he was warned by one of his nurses to say nothing about being in the ward. He told the consul, nevertheless. The explanation given at Ellis Island was that Probst had been put in the ward a brief time while his room was being cleaned.

Shifters Club Fad Sweeping Richmond

Parents Who Believed It
Innocuous Fraternal Club
Now Have Grounds to Be Worried.

RICHMOND, March 31.—The mysterious Order of Loyal Shifters continues to gain ground at John Marshall High school, while parents look on with mingled amusement and forebodings. According to reports, practically the entire student body, including both boys and girls, is gradually being swept into the canny realms of the organization. At first the school authorities looked upon the Shifters as a big practical joke and an innocent fad which strongly appealed to the youthful imagination. In the last few days, however, the order has reached such proportions in membership here that the school heads have wondered if the harmless fad was not being transformed into a dangerous craze. The way in which to combat the spread of the Shifters is the thing that worries the school authorities. A number of the students have been called before the schoolmasters, but they refused to divulge to their superiors any of the mysteries which accelerate the spread of the fraternity.

The commandant of the high school has forbidden the cadets to wear the official insignia on their uniforms, but according to reports this has had little effect in preventing the boys from wearing allegiance to the new order and they are now wearing the insignia under their blouses. The John Marshall girls are joining in equally as great numbers as the boys and it is this that gives the school authorities the most worry. It is reported that the girls have been forced to undergo some unconventionalities. A number of them, it is said, have been compelled to refrain from using paint, powder or perfume, and a still more humiliating edict prescribes that they appear in public with their ears uncovered. The organization is also raging at the business colleges and even among the military organizations of the national guard units. It had a glorious season the University of Richmond, also, but appears to have reached the zenith of its popularity there. Evidently persons who have taken serious cognizance of the order maintain that it encourages flirtation and objectionable intimacies among the sexes. In northern cities, where the organization first came into being, the novelty soon wore off and the only apparent harm encountered was that the youngsters gave their elders another shock and caused them to sit up and take notice of another passing social phase of the youthful imagination.

ILLNESS CAUSED POLICY CHANGE

PEKING, April 1.—During the absence of Premier Liang Shih-yi on sick leave caused by sudden change in the Chinese political situation, foreign diplomats have been entertained by Madame Liang; this being the first time in China that a woman has presided over an official social function. The annual spring dinner parties given in honor of the diplomatic corps were held with Madame Liang acting as hostess and as the representative of her husband. She was assisted by her daughter.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

We have been publishing our schedules in the Register and Bee.

Please help us to keep these schedules by boarding and alighting from the Street Cars Promptly.

Ladies, in particular, are respectfully requested to have the fare ready when boarding cars so as not to prevent passengers behind them from boarding the cars quickly.

Thank you for your co-operation.

Most for Your Money

Remember—the lowest first cost, the lowest upkeep and the highest resale value of any motor car ever built.

No other car of this type is priced so low — no other will give you more real motor car value—more convenience, more comfort, more dependability than a Ford Coupe. Equipped with electric starting and lighting system, demountable rims, extra rim and non-skid tires all around, it makes the ideal enclosed car for business or for pleasure. Reasonably prompt delivery. Terms if desired.
